

Delphia 37

Combines Beauty, Performance and Flexibility

This is the new yacht from Delphia Yachts of Poland introduced for the first time at the boat show in Dusseldorf in January 2005.

The designer, Andrzej Skrat, is well known and highly respected for his extensive knowledge, initiative and tasteful designs. When designing this new yacht special attention was paid to safety and comfort creating a fast and stable yacht that's easy to handle. It has beautiful lines and excellent all-round performance.

The cockpit is a dream to operate from with all the Lewmar winches within easy reach. With the standard furling Genoa, a rapid reefing system and the running rigging lead back to the cockpit, all manoeuvres can be carried out safely and swiftly.

Access is made easy between the cockpit and the backboard platform by lowering the helmsman's seat in one easy movement. On the backboard there is a swim ladder and a refreshing hot and cold shower.

Downstairs, the layout follows the same concept as the Delphia 40 with a large forward cabin and two rear cabins as the standard layout. There are two other layout options to choose from in the two cabin version.

Plenty of natural light and ventilation makes for a spacious saloon with nearly two metres of head room. There are two large skylights with roller blinds, numerous ports and hatches and generous stowage space.

The galley is fitted with a three burner gas stove and oven, dual sink with hot and cold water and state of the art Isotherm refrigeration with water cooled condensing unit.

On the port side there is a large well ventilated bathroom with a roomy shower and storage cabinet and electric toilet including a 40 litre holding tank.
